The Man in the Red
Bandanna by E. A. Santoro
May 28 2012

Over ten years ago, a young man led to safety a number of people from the World Trade Center. It was September 11, 2001; A group of terrorists carried out a well planned attack on the World Trade

Welles Remy Crowther

Center in New York City. A young 24 year old gentleman by the name of Welles Remy Crowther cleared his mind of his own safety and proceeded to lead lost and confused souls to safety. Welles had found the way to safety on his own and began to share his knowledge with others.

While others were scrambling through the smoke filled building to find the way out to safety. Welles was running up the stairs, to guide anyone he could, out of harms way. Welles was The son of Jefferson and Alison Crowther. He attended Boston College and was a member of their Lacrosse team.

His trade-mark was a red bandanna he kept in his back pocket. Welles' body was found days after the attack ; he had used the red bandanna to cover his mouth and nose that day and that item of clothing was the only clue to his heroic deed.

He is remembered by those who were rescued by him as the man in the red bandanna. A "Fellowship to the man in the Red Bandanna" has emerged from Boston College. If you are interested in joining a group dedicated to leading souls to salvation, email me and if we get enough interest we will have a meeting and plan for future strategy in leading souls to safety.

U.S. Bishops Prepare Catholics for Civil Disobedience: ‘We May Need to Witness to the Truth by Resisting the Law’

Having organized 43 plaintiffs—including the archdioceses of New York and Washington and the University of Notre Dame—to file 12 different lawsuits against the Obama administration last Monday alleging the administration is violating the religious freedom of Catholics, the Catholic bishops of the United States are now preparing Catholics for what may be the most massive campaign of civil disobedience in this country since the Civil Rights Movement of the 1950s and early 1960s. “Some unjust laws impose such injustices on individuals and organizations that disobeying the laws may be justified,” the bishops state in a document developed to be inserted into church bulletins in Catholic parishes around the country in June.

“Every effort must be made to repeal them,” the bishops say in the document, which is already posted on the website of the U.S.

Conference of Catholic Bishops. “When fundamental human goods, such as the right of conscience, are at stake, we may need to witness to the truth by resisting the law and incurring its penalties.”

Planned Parenthood Encourages Woman to Get Sex-Selection Abortion by Steven Ertelt | Washington, DC | LifeNews.com | 5/29/12 8:32 AM

National

The investigative pro-life group Live Action, which has released videos exposing the abuses at the Planned Parenthood abortion business across the country, has released a new video today showing a Planned Parenthood abortion clinic in Austin, Texas encouraging a woman to get a sex-selection abortion.

The video shows a Planned Parenthood staffer encouraging the woman to obtain a late-term abortion because she was purportedly carrying a girl and wanted to have a boy. The video is first in a new series titled “Gendercide: Sex-Selection in America,” that Live Action tells LifeNews will be exposing the practice of sex-selective abortion in the United States and how Planned Parenthood and the rest of the abortion industry facilitate the selective elimination of baby girls in the womb.

“I see that you’re saying that you want to terminate if it’s a girl, so are you just wanting to continue the pregnancy in the meantime?” a Planned Parenthood counselor named “Rebecca” offers the woman, who is purportedly still in her first trimester and cannot be certain about the gender.

“The abortion covers you up until 23 weeks,” explains Rebecca, “and usually at 5 months is usually (sic) when they detect, you know, whether or not it’s a boy or a girl.”

Live Action says the late-term abortion is offered for gender selection even though doctors agree that the later in term a doctor performs an abortion, the greater the risk of complications. In the video (seen below), the Planned Parenthood staffer suggests that the woman get on

Medicaid in order to pay for an ultrasound to determine the gender of her baby, even though she plans to use the knowledge for an elective abortion. The abortion facility staffer also tells the woman to “just continue and try again” for the desired gender after aborting a girl, and adds, “Good luck, and I hope that you do get your boy.”

Lila Rose, the president of Live Action, condemned Planned Parenthood for its willingness to facilitate sex-selection abortions.

“The search-and-destroy targeting of baby girls through prenatal testing and abortion is a pandemic that is spreading across the globe,” she said.

“Research proves that sex-selective abortion has now come to America. The abortion industry, led by Planned Parenthood, is a willing participant.”

A few years ago, a national study showed the possibility that the practice of sex-selection abortions has made its way from Asia to the United States. Researchers Douglas Almond and Lena Edlund of the National Academy of Sciences say their analysis of the 2000 Census shows the odds prematurely increasing for Asian-American families from China, Korea and India to have a boy if they already have a girl child. On Wednesday, Congress will debate the Prenatal Non-Discrimination Act (PRENDA), which would ban sex-selective abortions nationally. “Planned Parenthood and their ruthless abortion-first mentality is the real ‘war on women’,” says Rose. “Sex-selective abortion is gender discrimination with lethal consequences for little girls.” The complete, unedited video and transcript can be viewed at www.ProtectOurGirls.com, a hub of research and information on sex-selective abortions that Live Action has started. Planned Parenthood has already attempted to run damage control regarding the video expose’. The abortion business worked its contacts in the media in recent weeks to try to head the potential probe and its results off at the pass. Weeks ago, Planned Parenthood went to the liberal Huffington Post to try to do damage control before the results of any possible Live Action investigation are made public. Planned Parenthood told the Huffington Post it may be facing another campaign from Live Action to expose its practices on how it would handle someone seeking a sex-selection abortion. According to Planned Parenthood spokesperson Chloe Cooney, clinics in at least 11 states have reported two dozen or more “hoax visits” over the past several weeks, in which a woman walks into a clinic, claims to be pregnant and asks a particular pattern of provocative questions about sex-selective abortions, such as how soon she can find out the gender of the fetus, by what means and whether she can schedule an abortion if she’s having a girl. While patient privacy laws prohibit Planned Parenthood from offering specific details about the visits and where they occurred, Cooney told The Huffington Post that the incidents are so unusual and so similar to each other that they have raised concerns among the organization's executives that the visits are being recorded as part of a concerted anti-Planned Parenthood campaign.

“For years opponents of reproductive health and Planned Parenthood have engaged in secret videotaping tactics with fictitious patient scenarios and selective editing in an attempt to promote misinformation about Planned Parenthood and our services,” Cooney said. “As with the prior instances, we anticipate that once again this group, likely in coordination with a broad range of anti-abortion leaders, will soon launch a propaganda campaign with the goal of discrediting Planned Parenthood, and, ultimately, restricting women's health.”

While Planned Parenthood has no proof that Live Action is behind the current series of encounters, Cooney said the group is the most coordinated in their operations and that the recent string of incidents “follows their pattern exactly.” Planned Parenthood's attempt here to head off the results before the Live Action releases them was not the first occasion on which it attempted to do so.

Planned Parenthood representatives spoke with the Washington Post just a short time before Live Action released the sex trafficking videos showing Planned Parenthood staffers arranging abortions for victims. The abortion business also spoke with the Washington Post to put its spin on the breaking of the story of Komen for the Cure cutting its funding — causing a massive backlash and an eventual reversal in its decision.

A handful of states specifically prohibit sex-selection abortions — Arizona, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Illinois — but Planned Parenthood's representative made it appear the abortion business would have no problem with doing abortions for those reasons. In fact, comments from Planned Parenthood's representative make some wonder whether the abortion business would ever ask if a woman or couple wanted an abortion for that reason.

“Decisions about whether to choose adoption, end the pregnancy or to raise a child have to be left up to a woman, her family and her faith, with the counsel of her doctor,” Cooney said

The Post also quoted one Asian-American activist who appeared to oppose legislation to ban sex-selection abortions.

“Abortion restrictions are a non-solution, and Planned Parenthood and others who have been providing necessary women’s health care for gazillions of years are not the perpetrators of the war on women.”

Later, Americans United for Life attorney Anna Franzonello, in a new column at the Washington Times, provided more evidence showing Planned Parenthood may be willing to tolerate such gender-based abortions. For example, in opposition to a Missouri bill that would ban sex-selection abortions, a Planned Parenthood lobbyist recently testified that the organization “condemns” sex-selection abortions. However, when a legislator asked her to answer whether Planned Parenthood would refuse to perform such abortions if asked by a patient, she dodged the question with political rhetoric. Three times she refused to answer the question, even when asked directly to give a “yes or no” response. Americans United for Life was there, testifying against the discrimination against women inherent in sex-selection abortions.

Planned Parenthood Federation of America’s Leslie Kantor and Dr. Carolyn Westhoff penned an article in which they, too, claimed the abortion chain “condemns” sex selection.

However, their article also tellingly admits, “That doesn’t mean we always agree with the decisions made by people who seek our help.” Thus, it appears that in Planned Parenthood-speak, “condemnation” of sex selection does not include “will not participate” in the abortion. As reported by the Huffington Post, “None of [Planned Parenthood’s] clinics will deny a woman an abortion based on her reasons for wanting one, except in those states that explicitly prohibit sex-selection abortion.”

It seems fairly clear, despite Planned Parenthood's claimed "condemnation" of sex selection, it is a willing participant in sex-selection abortions unless it becomes illegal.

Franzonello suggests Planned Parenthood, if it turns out to have been a subject of another undercover expose', will likely dismiss the probe as biased and misleading rather than answer the charge that it tacitly supports sex-selection abortions.

Predicting the outcome of rumored current investigations, Planned Parenthood has said, "We expect that the materials eventually released will focus on Planned Parenthood's nonjudgmental discussions with the various women who posed as possible patients [seeking sex-selection abortions]."

Employing the term "nonjudgmental," Planned Parenthood hopes that readers will think "innocuous" and move on. But step back a second. Think about what "nonjudgmental" is being applied to: "discussions" about killing a baby girl because she is female. Not "judging" gender-based killing is taking a side.

Moreover, engaging in "nonjudgmental" discussions about sex selection undermines Planned Parenthood's assertion that "Gender bias is contrary to everything our organization works for daily in communities across the country." The veracity of Planned Parenthood's statement that it "finds the concept of sex selection deeply unsettling" should be found in any of its "discussions" about sex selection.

The mere fact that Planned Parenthood is mounting a public relations campaign before new allegations of bad behaviors casts doubt on those claims. If Planned Parenthood's "discussions" were in accord with mainstream American values that reject gender-based killing, it would have nothing to fear from their public release. There would be no story to get in front of, no need for damage control.

What is important, though, is that Planned Parenthood's participation in this war on women does not end with its "nonjudgmental" discussions. Planned Parenthood, the nation's largest abortion provider, appears willing to carry out sex-selection abortions.

If Planned Parenthood is indeed arranging sex-selection abortions for women and couples who want boy babies over girls, the further public damage to its tenuous reputation may be hard to calculate.

Live Action has been instrumental in exposing how the nation's biggest abortion business covered up cases of statutory rape and sex trafficking by arranging abortions on girls who were victimized. Live Action also exposed how Planned Parenthood would provide erroneous information about fetal development and abortion's risks and alternatives to women.

Live Action also released videotaped footage of calls to 30 Planned Parenthood centers nationwide in 27 different states where abortion facility staff were asked whether or not mammograms could be performed on site. Every one of the Planned Parenthood centers admitted they could not do mammograms. Every Planned Parenthood, without exception, told the women calling that they will have to go elsewhere for a mammogram, and many clinics admitted that no Planned Parenthood clinics provide this breast cancer screening procedure.

Dear Eugene,

You've heard me use this quote many times before...

"A society will be judged on the basis of how it treats its weakest members – the last, the least, the littlest."

Abortion, of course, is the worst form of human mistreatment imaginable. It is the intentional destruction of an innocent human life at its most vulnerable stage: In the sanctity of a mother's womb. Here at Priests for Life, we work every day to make all abortion illegal once again—because intentionally killing a helpless innocent little baby can never be justified.

But there is one kind of abortion that's just too horrible to even contemplate, but which is now very common and growing more widespread every day.

I'm talking about the intentional killing of a sweet little baby just because he or she is not the "preferred" gender.

Yes, that what we've come to in our sick "it's-all-about-me" society today: Parents are killing their little girls because they wanted a baby boy... or killing the little boys because they wanted a girl. This kind of warped, twisted "values" system—combined with the fact that abortion is permissible in this country for ANY reason and at ANY stage, even up to the moment of birth—has produced the ABOMINATION known as "sex selection" abortion.

I don't understand how someone could kill their own unborn baby just because they wanted a boy instead of a girl, and vice-versa.

The very thought of people doing this sickens me. But it actually IS happening—and not just in foreign lands like China or India (where this abomination is rampant).

No, I'm afraid it has now reached our own shores. It's the new "trendy" thing to do among certain groups—especially those who are so selfish and spiritually dead that they can think of nothing other than what their new baby can do for their social status... for their lifestyle... for their wealth accumulation... and so on.

Worldwide, well over 100 MILLION GIRLS ARE

MISSING due to "Female Gendercide" - the targeting of females for extermination through infanticide, and most often, the aborting of pre-born girls, just because they are girls.

According to a profound article in the globally respected magazine, The Economist, titled "GENDERCIDE: What happened to 100 million baby girls?"...

"The destruction is worst in China, but has spread far beyond. Even sections of America's population have distorted sex ratios." And in the Fall 2011 issue of The New Atlantis, political economist Nicholas Eberstadt of the American Enterprise Institute observed... "In terms of its sheer toll in human numbers, sex-selective abortion has assumed a scale tantamount to a global war against baby girls."

QUESTION:

Who, exactly, is performing these "sex-selection" abortions?

ANSWER:

Why, none other than PLANNED PARENTHOOD, of course!

In fact, our good friend Lila Rose of LIVE ACTION sent her undercover agents to Planned Parenthood abortion centers all across the country to document the widespread willingness of Planned Parenthood to kill a baby based on the repulsive request for a "sex-selection" abortion.

In one notable case that was captured as clear-as-day on hidden video, one of Lila Rose's operatives goes to a Planned Parenthood abortion mill in Austin, Texas, and gets detailed, matter-of-fact advice from the “counselor” on how to go through with an abortion because the mother wants a boy instead of a girl.

The Planned Parenthood staffer happily explains how the young mother should wait until the baby is FIVE MONTHS OLD so she can “be sure” of the gender... as well as how to get on Medicaid welfare funding in the meantime so as to bilk the system during the five months of pregnancy... how to use birth control after the abortion... and then how to just “try again” for a baby boy. And if that doesn’t work, well...

Have Another Abortion!

I’m not making this up. In fact, you can SEE THIS VIDEO FOR YOURSELF by going to YouTube and watching it there. Just click the link below...

www.youtube.com/watch?v=U2H3ZDnBtuw&feature=player\_embedded

But before you do that, I want to tell you the real reason I’m writing to you today...

It turns out that there’s a VITAL pro-life bill before Congress right now that will BAN these sex-selection abortions! AND... this bill is coming up for a vote IMMEDIATELY!

As in TOMORROW NIGHT!!!

Less than 24 hours from now, as I write this!

That’s why I urgently need you to drop EVERYTHING you’re doing right now and CONTACT YOUR CONGRESSMAN as quickly as you can—telling him or her to VOTE “YES” ON H.R. 3541 – the “Prenatal Nondiscrimination Act” (or “PRENDA” for short).

PRENDA will put an absolute BAN on the sex-selection abortion nightmare I’ve described above. It will also BAN abortions based on RACE or COLOR—which, as we know, is a severe problem in America’s minority communities because of the abortion industry’s DELIBERATE TARGETING of Blacks, Hispanics, and other minority groups.

And most of all, PRENDA would cause abortion giants like Planned Parenthood to

LOSE THEIR FEDERAL

FUNDING if they continue to do sex-selection or race-selection abortions. As you’ll plainly see when you watch Lila Rose’s powerful undercover video, this is exactly what Planned Parenthood is doing right now.

They do these sex-selection abortions openly. Blatantly. Arrogantly. Happily! With no apologies!

But if we can get PRENDA approved by Congress, these monstrous types of abortion will be OUTLAWED! (All abortions are monstrous, of course - but sex-selection and race-selection are the worst of all.)

And anyone who performs them or accepts money - even for promoting them (as Planned Parenthood certainly does) - will lose all their federal funding.

That means, if H.R. 3541 passes... WE COULD PUT

PLANNED PARENTHOOD OUT OF BUSINESS!

So please... contact your local Congressman IMMEDIATELY.

And since the vote is TOMORROW, there's NO TIME FOR E-MAILS.

This must be done BY TELEPHONE.

If you don't know who your current Congressman is or how to call him/her, there are several convenient ways to easily find out.

#1.) You can go right now to www.house.gov and enter your ZIP code and street address, and the web site will tell you who your Member of Congress is and what his/her office phone numbers are.

#2.) Look up your Congressman in your local phone book in the "Government" pages. Even calling the local office is better than nothing! The local office will call the Washington office and let them know they're getting flooded with calls urging a YES vote on H.R. 3541...!

#3.) Or, call your local City Hall, the library, or your main newspaper and they can give you the Congressman's contact information.

But no matter what it takes, DROP WHAT YOU'RE DOING and get your voice heard RIGHT NOW!

That's because the vote on H.R. 3541 comes up on the floor of Congress TOMORROW NIGHT...And We Can't Afford To Be Even

A MINUTE LATE On This!

Yes, it's THAT urgent. (I wouldn't pester you like this if it weren't.) Incidentally, they took us completely by surprise by sending this bill to the floor for a vote with virtually NO notice... because certain powers DON'T want this bill passed!

And once you watch the undercover video from Lila Rose's LIVE ACTION team,

I know you'll be SO ANGRY with Planned Parenthood, you'll want to contact EVERY Member of Congress and MAKE SURE they ALL vote "YES" on H.R. 3541...!

Let them know that we'll be closely watching their vote - ESPECIALLY since they're all coming up for RE-ELECTION this November.

And what kind of a Congressman wants to be known as voting to keep sex-selection (and race-selection) abortions LEGAL??? This could be "the last straw" for millions of Americans who rightly regard sex-selection and race-selection abortions as absolutely DETESTABLE.

With your help, dear reader, we can get H.R. 3841 approved when it gets voted on TOMORROW NIGHT! (Wednesday, May 30th).

Hopefully you'll read this e-mail in time!

But to achieve this timely victory...

YOU MUST ACT NOW!

Thank you, in advance, for your willingness to let your voice be heard.

God bless you!

Sincerely,

Fr. Frank Pavone
