Another Catholic College Going to Hell?

By: Eugene A. Santoro

If I understand this new policy change at Holy Cross college in Worcester, they plan to allow students 18yrs years and older to congregate in a “Pub” on campus, to keep them on the premises, and protect them from hanging about local bars and drinking establishments. They will allow alcohol consumption to those of legal age only.

I can see some positives here: 1) the college protects itself from embarrassing incidents off campus, 2) may keep students from driving drunk, 3) college personnel will try to keep minors from drinking.

4) income from sales may add cash to their treasury...

This new policy may help to keep students on campus. Students go to bars to drink, get drunk, and party. Now, students can “stay home” drink, get drunk, and party.

On the other hand, it seems to me, the college is condoning alcohol consumption. Will this be a message to younger students that drinking is an acceptable way of life? Is Holy Cross the prerequisite to Alcohol Anonymous (AA)? Is AA really looking for Catholic school graduates?

I think Holy Cross' new policy is full of holes. (Pun intended)

Obama's Private Remarks Caught on Planned Parenthood, Obamacare.

A White House reporter last night caught pro-abortion President Barack Obama talking privately to donors using a microphone that transmitted the audio to the main correspondent press room.

CBS Radio News White House correspondent Mark Knoller had no idea the audio feed from Obama's microphone would be fed live into the White House press room until he happened to be the last reporter left in the room on Thursday night. In the candid remarks Knoller heard, Obama talked about his private dealings with pro-life House Speaker John Boehner in the budget negotiations that led up to votes Thursday on de-funding Obamacare and Planned Parenthood.

I said, "You want to repeal health care? Go at it." □ Obama told supporters. "We'll have that debate. You're not going to be able to do that by nickel-and-diming me in the budget. You think we're stupid?" □ □

Obama said he told Boehner that Democrats spent a year and half getting Obamacare, which has loopholes allowing abortion funding ad presents rationing concerns, in place and that he and his party paid significant political costs in enacting it to the point that Obama said he would not allow Republicans to start dismantling it via the budget.

The CBS correspondent also heard Obama talk about Planned Parenthood de-funding and his demanding of Boehner that a separate vote be held.

Put it in a separate bill, □ Obama told the Democratic donors about what he told Boehner. We'll call it up. And if you think you can overturn my veto, try it. But don't try to sneak this through. □

Obama also told Democratic supporters last night that he expected Republicans to continue doing everything they can to stop or reduce the effectiveness of his political agenda.

“Oh God, I’m getting a headache.”

Planned Parenthood Votes Show Pro-Life Democrats Extinct

When members of the Senate voted yesterday on whether taxpayer money should continue flowing to the Planned Parenthood abortion business to the tune of tens of millions of dollars annually, pro-life advocates had no friends in the Democratic Party. While all but five Republicans voted for the resolution prohibiting the abortion business from receiving money under the Title X family planning portion of the federal budget, none of the three self-declared pro-life Democrats had any interest in yanking funds from the nation’s biggest abortion business that does more than 330,000 abortions on an annual basis. Bob Casey of Pennsylvania, Ben Nelson of Nebraska and Joe Manchin of West Virginia all voted to allow Planned Parenthood to continue exploiting women and children via abortions done at their taxpayer-funded facilities. Their votes will likely cost them support from pro-life organizations and pro-life voters in the 2012 elections as they each face difficult re-election campaigns.

Guy Benson, a writer at TownHall, a conservative web site, noted the unanimous pro-Planned Parenthood posture of the supposedly pro-life Democrats and says they are now officially extinct.

□ Can we finally dispense with the myth of the pro-life Democrat? □ he said. □ In the Senate last night, three pro-life Democrats voted in lockstep with America’s Official Abortion Party to maintain federal funding to Planned Parenthood in a stand alone vote.

Woman Rushed to Hospital in Florida After Botched Abortion

An ambulance rushed to the Presidential Women's Center abortion center in West Palm Beach, Florida on Saturday to transport a woman to the hospital for emergency care following a botched abortion. This was the third time recently that a woman was transported to the hospital after a botched abortion at an abortion clinic affiliated with the National Abortion Federation. Two women were transported for emergency medical care after failed abortions in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

In this latest case in Florida, the ambulance pulled into the back alley where emergency workers loaded a gurney bearing an injured woman and then it sped away to an unknown hospital emergency room. The woman's condition remains unknown as well. One pro-life advocate who happened to be at the abortion center to inform women of abortion alternatives photographed the ambulance and watched the scene unfold. The abortion practitioner on duty at the time was Michael Benjamin, who has a history of Medical Board discipline and has a current public complaint on file, according to the Florida Department of Health. Abortion practitioner Frank Rodriguez is also known to do abortions there, according to Operation Rescue, the pro-life group that provided information about the failed abortion to LifeNews.

□ This is not the first time we have seen ambulances at Presidential Women's Center, □ said M. Susan Pine, the president of the local pro-life group FACE Life, Inc., who was at the abortion center at the time. □ Presidential is simply another butcher shop. □

Planned Parenthood to Expand Abortion Biz in Nebraska, Iowa

Fresh from a victory in the Senate to preserve its massive taxpayer funding, a local affiliate of the Planned Parenthood abortion business announced today it plans to expand in Nebraska and Iowa. Planned Parenthood of the Heartland announced today it will open new centers in 12 communities in the Midwestern states over the next five years □ including a third location in Lincoln, the Nebraska state capital and the location of the University of Nebraska. PPH president Jill June announced the expansion and launched a $11.5 million campaign to raise funds for the new centers that will add to the 25 the abortion business already operates in the two states. Planned Parenthood would open new centers, which would either do abortions or refer for them, in Grand Island, Fremont, North Platte, Hastings, Norfolk and Kearney in Nebraska, and Carter Lake, Clinton, Mason City, Muscatine, Ottumwa and Marshalltown in Iowa. It did not say which centers would do abortions on site, offer the dangerous RU 486 abortion drug which has killed 13 women and injured 1,100 more, or which would only refer for abortions. It's ambitious, June told AP of Planned Parenthood's expansion plans. We are going forward in western Nebraska because people need us there as well. She told the Associated Press her Planned Parenthood affiliate has already raised $7 million of the funds necessary to expand and is expected to reach the goal in the next five years. June also indicated the abortion business will announce the purchase of a new site in Lincoln in the next 30 days.

Here is a message for PP.

Washington Pastors Challenge DC Mayor Gray on Abortion Funding

After facing arrest following his protesting Congress approving a budget bill that reinstates the ban on taxpayer funding of abortions in the District of Columbia, Washington mayor now faces his own protests. In response to Mayor Vincent Gray's protest and arrest for supporting forcing taxpayers to fund abortions of DC residents, a coalition of D.C. pastors are challenging the Mayor to stand up for the tiniest of constituents who truly cannot speak for themselves the unborn children killed in the abortions.

Signed by 10 African American pastors from the District of Columbia and surrounding areas, including Bishop Harry R. Jackson, Jr. and Rev. Dean Nelson of Care Net, a national network of 1,130 pregnancy centers, an open letter to Mayor Gray reads:

Who could have imagined during the height of the Civil Rights Movement a day when the mayor of Washington, D.C. would be arrested for protesting for the right to use tax dollars to abort babies, a disproportionate number of them black? As pastors and community leaders, we feel bewildered and

One leading bishop is explaining why. Archbishop Charles J. Chaput, who leads the Denver, Colorado archdiocese, responded to a question on the topic following a presentation he made at April 8 at an event sponsored by the University of Notre Dame Right to Life Club.

Indiana Senate OKs Bill for Reporting Abortions on Teen Girls

Indiana Right to Life is applauding the Indiana Senate for passing a bill yesterday that would help ensure abortions are reported when done on teenage girls who are apparently victims of statutory rape. The Senate approved House Bill 1474 by a 48-0 vote and the bill carries provisions that Indiana's abortion reporting requirements be amended to require that any abortion done on a girl under the age of 14 be reported to the department of child services within three days of the abortion in order to streamline the reporting of child sexual abuse

Wisconsin: Pro-Life Supreme Court Justice Prosser Wins Race

After weeks following a close election for the Wisconsin

Supreme Court that saw one county election official admit a data entry error that changed the result of the race, pro-life Justice David Prosser has unofficially won.

Margaret Sanger, the Soviets, and Democrats: Loving Abortion

"[W]e could well take example from Russia," advised Planned Parenthood founder, Margaret Sanger, "where birth control instruction is part of the regular welfare service of the government." My, how far modern liberal Democrats have progressed.

NPR Runs Biased Story on Planned Parenthood, Seattle Pro-Life Billboard

In a biased NPR feature story yesterday, Planned Parenthood, Seattle took issue with Vitae Foundation's billboards and website, falsely asserting they are "misleading." KUOW reporter Meghan Walker never contacted Vitae for comment about the billboards or website even though Vitae always welcomes the opportunity to talk openly about its mission and messaging.

betrayed. □

Abortion is the leading cause of death in the black community nationwide. While African American women represent 13% of the female population, they undergo 37% of all abortions. As a leader charged with our protection and government, we are shocked at your passion to continue this trend with tax dollars. □

Planned Parenthood to Close Center in Northern California

The Planned Parenthood abortion business closed one of its northern California centers effective yesterday. The local Six Rivers Planned Parenthood affiliated closed up shop in Weaverville, California.

□ For quite some time, this health center has been struggling with decreased patient volume and increased costs, □ a Planned Parenthood official told the Trinity Journal newspaper.

□ We have worked hard with our Trinity County Advisory Council and the Weaverville community to brainstorm solutions, expand marketing, get creative, and do anything and everything we could to maintain the current level of service, □ the official said.

□ We have been part of the Trinity County community for over 25 years and know that patients like you need and value our services. □

Weaverville is a community in the national forest area west of Redding in the northern part of the state too far from the Oregon border. Although the center there did not perform abortions or give out the dangerous RU 486 abortion drug, that has killed 13 women worldwide and injured another 1,100 more in the United States alone as of 2006 FDA figures, it made abortion referrals to the Planned Parenthood abortion business in Eureka.

Chaput: Bishops Must Present Unity on Politicians, Abortion When Catholic politicians push for abortion without impunity, Catholic faithful are often left wondering why Church leaders don't do more to bring up their actions as out of step with Catholic teachings.

CATHOLIC SHAMPOO

While shopping in a food store, two nuns happened to pass by the beer cooler. One nun said to the other, "Wouldn't a nice cold beer or two taste wonderful on a hot summer evening?"

The second nun answered, "Indeed it would sister, but I would not feel comfortable buying beer as I am certain it would cause a scene at the checkout."

"I can handle that without a problem," she replied as she picked up a six-pack and headed for the checkout.

"The cashier had a surprised look on his face when the two nuns arrived with a six-pack of beer. One of the nuns explained "We use beer for washing our hair, a shampoo of sort, if you will."

Without blinking an eye, the cashier reached under the counter, pulled out a package of pretzel sticks and placed them in the bag with the beer. He looked the nun straight in the eye, smiled and said, "The curlers are on the house."

A Spanish Lesson

A Spanish Teacher was explaining to her class that in Spanish, unlike English, nouns are designated as either masculine or feminine.

'House' for instance, is feminine: 'la casa.'

'Pencil,' however, is masculine: 'el lapiz.'

A student asked, "What gender is 'computer'?"

Instead of giving the answer, the teacher split the class into two groups, male and female, and asked them to decide for themselves whether 'computer' should be a masculine or a feminine noun. Each group was asked to give four reasons for its recommendation.

The men's group decided that 'computer' should definitely be of the feminine gender ('la computadora'), because:

1. No one but their creator understands their internal logic;
2. The native language they use to communicate with other computers is incomprehensible to everyone else;
3. Even the smallest mistakes are stored in long term memory for possible later retrieval; and

4. As soon as you make a commitment to one, you find yourself spending half your wages on accessories for it.

(THIS GETS BETTER!)

The women's group, however, concluded that computers should be Masculine ('el computador'), because:

1. In order to do anything with them, you have to turn them on;
2. They have a lot of data but still can't think for themselves;
3. They are supposed to help you solve problems, but half the time they ARE the problem;

4. As soon as you commit to one, you realize that if you had waited a little longer, you could have gotten a better model.
The women won.

House Strips Funding From Obamacare Law, Senate Votes
No

On a 240-185 vote today, with all Republicans supporting and all but three Democrats in opposition, the House of Representatives voted to strip the Obamacare health care law of its federal funding. The Senate voted immediately afterwards 53-47, on a party-line vote, and defeated the Obamacare de-funding measure. However, the House vote is an indication of the way Americans strongly oppose the Obamacare law, which contains loopholes allowing federal taxpayer funding of abortion and presents rationing concerns for pro-life groups. The Senate vote had all three of the self-declared pro-life

Democrats, Ben Nelson of Nebraska, Joe Manchin of West Virginia, and Bob Casey of Pennsylvania, vote against defunding the pro-abortion, pro-rationing Obamacare law.

In fact, according to a new Associated Press poll, support for Obama's health-insurance expansion has slipped to 35 percent, while opposition stands at 45 percent and another 17 percent are undecided. Among seniors, support for the Obamacare measure has slipped to under 30 percent for the first time.

Meanwhile, a Rasmussen Reports poll shows a majority of voters still favor repeal of the health care law with 51% of Likely Voters at least somewhat favoring repeal of the health care law, including 41% who Strongly Favor it. Forty-one percent (41%) oppose repeal, with 28% who are Strongly Opposed.

Since Democrats passed the law in Congress in late March of last year, support for repeal has ranged from a low of 50% to a high of 63%. At the same time, the number of voters who oppose repeal has ranged from 33% to 43%. Republicans consistently have been strongly in support of repeal, while Democrats have overwhelmingly opposed it.

This week, among voters not affiliated with either major party, 53% favor repeal and 37% oppose it.

The Carburator
"The car won't start,"
said a wife to her husband. "I think there's water in the carburator."

"How do you know?"
said the husband
scornfully. "You don't even know what the carburator is."

"I'm telling you,"
repeated the wife, "I'm sure there's water in
the carburator."

"We'll see," mocked
the husband. "Let me
check it out. Where's the car?"

"In the swimming
