Golden Eggs and the Right to Protest

By: Eugene A.

10/19/2011

It is our constitutional right to peacefully protest, with the proper permits, in the United States of America.

Protesting is a way to be noticed and heard after trying to talk to deaf ears. Protests hardly ever seem to involve two peaceful parties; one party seems to eventually become over enthusiastic or even violent. From revolutionary times to the present day the government, of The United States of America, has been shaken by peaceful or violent protests.

We have been attacked, on our soil, by the British, Japanese, Arab Terrorists, and our own American born terrorists. Each conflict was initially begun with “in your face” or silent protests of sorts.

We have fought against Fascists, Nazis, and Communists. The Korean War, Vietnam War, The Cold War, were wars, basically, against Communism. Now we seem to have a number of avowed communists coming out of the woodwork and protesting against our form of government. Some of these people hate capitalism, especially Wall Street, they hate specific ethnic groups and religions, some even hate the United States, its political parties, and its capitalistic form of government. The majority have various specific gripes with the government. The whole situation seems to be chaotic, yet organized groups are there for support. Being about 77 years old, this all feels and seems very familiar.

When anyone in the world needs help we seem to give money and lives to protect their human rights. If we damage their country's infrastructure we pay to repair the damage. Even countries we were at war with, we have helped them to recover and get back to some kind of normalcy. Is there another country in this world that will do that? What other country does this in the name of freedom? The United States of America seems to be the goose that lays the golden eggs.

As that story goes, the owners, of this special goose, decided it took too long for the goose to lay the eggs, instead of waiting for it to produce the slow bounty of golden ovals, they decided to kill the goose, open it up, and retrieve all of the un laid eggs. Of course, once the goose was killed the golden eggs were gone forever. The moral of this story is, "When you protest, make sure you do not destroy the goose that lays the golden eggs."

A worried woman went to her gynecologist and said:

'Doctor, I have a serious problem and desperately need your help! My baby is not even 1 year old and I'm pregnant again. I don't want kids so close together.'

So the doctor said: 'Ok and what do you want me to do?'

She said: 'I want you to end my pregnancy, and I'm counting on your help with this.'

The doctor thought for a little, and after some silence he said to the lady: 'I think I have a better solution for your problem. It's less dangerous for you too.'

She smiled, thinking that the doctor was going to accept her request.

Then he continued: 'You see, in order for you not to have to take care of 2 babies at the same time, let's kill the one in your arms. This way, you could rest some before the other one is born. If we're going to kill one of them, it doesn't matter which one it is. There would be no risk for your body if you chose the one in your arms.'

The lady was horrified and said: 'No doctor!

How terrible! It's a crime to kill a child!'

'I agree', the doctor replied. 'But you seemed to be OK with it, so I thought maybe that was the best solution.'

The doctor smiled, realizing that he had made his point.

He convinced the mom that there is no difference in killing a child that's already been born and one that's still in the womb. The crime is the same!

If you agree, please

Herman Cain in New Interview: Abortion Should Not be Legal

Herman Cain has given a new interview in which he explains his pro-life views on abortion and gives some insight as to why he made some pro-choice sounding comments in a CNN interview this week.

As LifeNews.com reported, Cain gave an interview to CNN on Wednesday in which he used typical pro-choice language about government not making abortion decisions for women that applied, depending on the listener, to either abortions in the case of rape and incest or abortion policy in general. Either way, pro-life advocates have been disappointed following the comments and they have called on Cain to clarify the comments which he did in a short message on twitter later in the day saying he is 100% pro-life.

Cain, later Thursday, released a statement saying he is fully pro-life, saying he will appoint the kind of judges who would be inclined to consider reversing Roe v. Wade, and adding that he opposes taxpayer funding of abortions or the Planned Parenthood abortion business.

Now, the Georgia businessman and GOP presidential hopeful says in a new interview with Fox News that abortions should be illegal, and he explained why he gave the answer he did to Piers Morgan on CNN.

Obama Admin Hides Public Comments Against

Obamacare Mandate

The Obama administration today is coming under fire from pro-life advocates who submitted tens of thousands of public comments opposing a new mandate that would force insurance companies to cover birth control, contraception and drugs that may cause abortions.

The administration has initially approved a recommendation from the Institute of Medicine suggesting that it force insurance companies to pay for birth control and drugs that can cause abortions under the Obamacare government-run health care program.

The IOM recommendation, opposed by pro-life groups, called for the Obama administration to require insurance programs to include birth control such as the morning after pill or the ella drug that causes an abortion days after conception in the section of drugs and services insurance plans must cover under preventative care. The companies will likely pass the added costs on to consumers, requiring them to pay for birth control and, in some instances, drug-induced abortions of unborn children in their earliest days.

Several leading pro-life groups including the Family Research Council and the nations Catholic bishops, among others had led the charge to urge pro-life Americans to speak out against the recommendation, the mandate to force coverage and the lack of conscience protections of religious groups that don't want to be forced to purchase insurance coverage with those objectionable provisions to send comments to the Department of Health and Human Services.

Even though tens of thousands of pro-life Americans have done so, Jeanne Monahan of FRC says the Obama administration is not making those comments public, as promised.

National Right to Life: Herman Cain is Fully Pro-Life

The National Right to Life Committee is today vouching for Republican presidential candidate Herman Cain's bona fides, saying the businessman who is considered by many to be the current GOP frontrunner is pro-life.

NRLC's comments come after a 48-hour period during which Cain has confused pro-life voters where he stands by first using seemingly pro-abortion language saying government should have no involvement before finally clarifying he is pro-life and saying he wants abortions illegal.

Herman Cain's pro-life, □ David O'Steen, executive director of the National Right to Life Committee, told National Review. □ He addressed our convention last June. We are quite confident in his pro-life position. When he ran in the primary for senate some years back he ran as a pro-life candidate then in Georgia.

We've known of him for a number of years, and he's always taken a pro-life position. □

At that event, Cain, the former businessman and candidate, said the Founding fathers got it right including the right to life from conception.

Don't infringe on the rights of somebody else and that includes the unborn, Cain said of what the Constitution requires.

Sebelius Admin Destroyed Records in Case Against Planned Parenthood

Another layer to the depth of the Sebelius abortion corruption has been revealed with today's AP report that Kansas health department (KDHE) in 2005 destroyed the state late-term abortion reports at the heart of the felony charges against Planned Parenthood.

The pre-trial hearing for felony false-writing charges had been scheduled for Monday Oct. 24, Since the original reports have now been discovered as destroyed, the Johnson County District attorney's office had asked for a delay so they could engage other witnesses to verify the authenticity of copies of the state reports.

The state reports are verifications that abortionists send to KDHE for statistical purposes, and are annually tabulated and published. Copies of those reports are required to be kept in the patient medical files. Of crucial importance is that these reports fail to provide valid medical reasons that banned post-viability abortions were performed. They are evidence of illegal abortion.

KFL Executive Director, Mary Kay Culp, said, Only guilty people destroy evidence; not even we anticipated Sebelius and her administration could stoop this low to protect abortion industry criminality, but this proves they did. Sebelius wanted to insure that evidence of illegal abortions was removed before Kline could use it to convict her abortion industry campaign supporters. We truly can't find words to adequately convey how outrageous this is. We are especially incredulous given that Sebelius Health department testified about these reports in Johnson County court in 2008 without once mentioning that the reports had been destroyed! It's all so unbelievable, and yet, given the players, so very believable indeed!□

Planned Parenthood, Indiana Battle in Court Over Tax Funding

Indiana officials and Planned Parenthood did battle in a federal appeals court yesterday over whether taxpayers in the Hoosier State should be required to fund the abortion business.

After the Indiana affiliate of the abortion business refused to stop doing abortions in order to get state taxpayer funding that Indiana officials want to cut off, its attorneys defended their lawsuit to overturn the new law de-funding Planned Parenthood before the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals, which held oral arguments yesterday. Attorneys for Indiana hoped to convince the court to let the law stay in effect while the full lawsuit against it continues.

The state asked a three-judge panel to overturn the temporary injunction a federal judge put in place and it is unclear when the panel will deliver its decision. The law cuts out $1.3 million in taxpayer funding to the abortion giant, which does more abortions than any other organization.

Planned Parenthood lawyers attempted to make the case that the law runs afoul of federal Medicaid law, which it claims forbids states to arbitrarily determine the end recipients for family planning dollars under the Title X program. However, the state says the law requires it to find qualified providers□ and says dozens of other options exist for providing the federal funding through the state to businesses that don't also do abortions.

7 Billion People: What Population Control Advocates Don't Say

International population advocates and their allies in the media have decided that October 31, 2011 is the day that the world's population will reach 7 billion. How convenient for them; they get to play off the day dedicated to spooky tales with a spooky tale of their own.

Over the weekend, some version of the Associated Press (AP) article World Population Nearing 7 Billion ended up in most major newspapers. Here's the gist of the article: Women and their families living in poverty, not enough food, water, or access to education all because they have too many children. The intended message? The world is going to collapse under the weight of its burgeoning population unless something is done.

United Families International has been contacted by several individuals asking for a rebuttal to this claim. So we decided to share some thoughts on the topic.

Is the world's population spiraling out of control? No, global fertility rates are half of what they were in 1970 and are continuing downward. The number of children the average woman has during her childbearing years fell from five in the mid-1960's to 2.7 today. With the exception of some sub-Saharan nations such as Niger, Yemen and Uganda, fertility rates have fallen rather dramatically around the world. (UN, World Population Report, 2010) By 2020, for the first time, the global fertility rate will dip below the global replacement rate of 2.1.
